

Project: East Central Neighborhood Affordable Housing

Recipient: City of Ogden, Utah

Location: Ogden, Utah

Purpose: The requested funds will allow Ogden to address the continuing significant affordable home ownership issues: particularly the poor quality of multiple-unit homes that need reinvestment and conversion back to single-family ownership and occupancy. Ogden's most pressing issue is the disinvestment of homes in the East Central Neighborhood which adjoins the central business district. Reinvestment in the existing housing stock will stabilize this neighborhood, reduce turnover in the school population, and physically improve the deteriorated conditions of these affordable housing units. This urban renewal project area is being established pursuant to Utah's redevelopment statute. The blight study conducted in the area documented serious conditions that are detrimental to the health, safety and public welfare. This project will improve the area and reduce strains on local and federal government services.
